PORTER'S WONDERFUL CENSUS

A Mass of Jumbled Figures and Bad

DOUGLASS GETTING UNEASY.

He is Afraid He Will Not be Returned as Minister to Hayti North Carolina's Share of the Direct Tax-Capital Notes.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 9. -[Special.]-At last Superintendent Porter of the Census Buread, is beginning to discharge clerks who were employed for temporary work. It will be remembered that when the Census Bureau was organized Porter refused to submit to the civil service system for procuring clerks, asserting that he would establish a method of examination which would be vastly superior to that of the Civil Service Commission. This was simply a subterfuge to enable Porter to distribute the patronage of the bureau among the Republican politicians, and he did this with prodigal liberality. One result is that his census statistics are practically worthless. They are assailed on every hand and every assault proves them defective and misleading.

Now that so many consus clerks are being dispensed with the heads of other departments are fairly everwhelmed with appeals to movide for the outgoing employes. But this provide for the outgoing employes. But this cannot be done under the law. In refusing to accept the civil service system Porter placed his employes without the pale of law for transfer from one department or one bureau to another. In the matter of dismissals or retentions Porter is pursuing the same partisan course that has marked his entire administration. He re-tains those clerks who have the strongest Republican backing, regardless of their capacity or the superior efficiency of others

Who are dismissed.

Upon the whole it is difficult to determine what will be done with Porter's census. It is already a mass of jumbled figures and bad guessing. The entire work will have to be revised before the people will accept it with any degree of trust.

PRED. HOUGLASS UNKASY.

Frederick Douglass is moving about quite briskly for an old man, rallying all the influence possible to help him retain his position as United States representative to Hayth. This much can be said with positive emphasis; If Douglass be retained it will be against the urgent advice of Secretary Blaine. The Times has hitherto given in detail all the objections urged by Mr. Blaine against the retention of Douglass. Blaine against the retention of Douglass.
President Harrison has been convinced that Douglass is an obstacle instead of a help to negotiations with Hayti, and it is pretty sale to say that Mr. Douglass will not return as the representative of this Government.

NORTH CAROLINA'S DIRECT TAX. Senator Ransom has been busy with the Treasury officials all day endeavoring to arrange the payment of North Carolina's share of the direct tax in pursuance of an act of the North Carolina Legislature. The State has been paid something over £377,000, and Senator Ransom came here to establish the fact that North Carolina is entitled to about $26,000 more. In adjusting the claim the Treasury officials deducted something over $28,000 as renattes, claiming something over $26,000 as penalties, claiming that this amount had been forfeited because of delay in paying the taxes. North Carolina set up the claim that there were no penalties. set up the claim that there were no penalties, and that the State was entitled to the additional $25,000. Senator Ransom's mission was an entire success, as late this afternoon the First Comptroller of the Treasury rendered a written opinion awarding North Carolina the additional $26,000, and making the total award to the State on account of the direct tax about $404,000. Senator Ransom will return home to morrow. will return home to-morrow.

PROTESTING AGAINST MAIL SERVICE

The people of Piscataway, Va., have filed in the Postoffice Department a vigorous protest against the mail service they now have. They show that by the present service mails are delayed two days or the carrier lays over en route two nights. The people petition for a service that will start from Penola when the trains arrive from Richmond and Washington and go direct to Piscataway and Tappahan-nock. It is almost certain that this route will

A latter has been received by a Government official here stating that a Captain Annatt at Norfolk, Va., is collecting a crew to man a vessel now being armed and fitted on Long Island Sound to proceed to Mexican waters to "hunt for treasures." The nature of the treasure is not stated, but from the letter it is thought that the expedition is for filibustering purposes. The writer called attention to the expedition and asked if it will be lawful, as hes to join it if so. No reply has been sent to the inquiry.

Condition of Affairs in Chill.

Washington, D. C., July 9.—The following dispatch was received at the Chilian Legation here to-day from the Chillan legation in Paris: "The French court decreed to-day that the two cruisers of the Chilian Govern-ment, President Geeazuris and President Pinto, were released from second Pinto, were released from sequestration in which they have been held and condemned the agents of the insurgents to pay costs. These powerful cruisers will leave immediately to join the navy of the Chilian Government. The ironclad Arturo Prat, which is one of the most powerful vessels in the world, will be finished in a short time, and will leave to strengthen the naval force of the Chilian Government." The Chilian minister the of the opinion that with the aid of these vessels, in addition to those now in the Chilian service, the insurgents will be brought to submission within a short time. He places no credence in the dispatch received by the insurgent representatives last night from Iquique to effect that Balmaceda's army was feated by the insurgent troops, but thinks the report is part of a scheme of the insurgent barty to influence the French court in decid-ing the cases of the Chilian vessel held in se-questration by the French Government.

WERE THE BODIES ROASTED?

RICHMOND, VA., FRIDAY, JULY 10, 1891.

Conflicting Statements Regarding the Burning of the Four Men.

DR. DANIELS FLATLY DENIES THE REPORT

But a Reporter Tells a Horrible Story About the Blackening of Smiler's Body-An Interview With One of the Witnesses.

New York, July 9.- The Evening World had several reporters to follow the body of Smiler, one of the men elotrocuted at Sing Sing Tuesday last, to this city. One of the reporters secreted himself in the cellar of the undertaker where the body of Smiler was carried on its arrival in this city. The reporter says in his account this afternoon that the undertaker and his men, after the body was lowered in the cellar, removed the upper half of the lid of the coffin, when one of the men uttered an ejaculation of horror at the sight.

"Who ever said that this body was not burned is a liar;" muttered one of them. The uttered and his assistants then put beak the cover on the coffin and went unistants to the cover on the coffin and went up-stairs to the store above. The next instant the re-porter was by the side of the coffin.

A HORRIBLE SIGHT. The sight which met his gaze was horrible. On the dead man's forehead were two red spots. They were about two inches and a quarter spart. They seemed to be sunken in, and about their edges they appeared as if they had been burned. The rest of the forehead was discolved. The evaluations were they had been burned. The rest of the tope-head was discolored. The eyebrows were mostly burned sway. The ends of some of the hair showed the sizzled appearance pro-duced by heat. The eyelids were burned and the eyeliashes singed and par-tially destroyed, although not so much gone as were the eyebrows. But the awful disfigurement was the face. Across the bridge of the nose was a burn, red and scared. The inner rim of each nostril showed scared. The inner rim of each nostri snowed distinctly that it had been burned. On each side of the face the skin hung loses. It was shrivelled up. The flesh behind was yellow and red. It looked like red beef that had been placed on white-hot fron.

THE BURNS ON THE FACE.

Both sides of the face were not alike. The Both sides of the face were not alike. The burn on the left side was the larger. It covered a space of two and a half inches by one inch and a half. The scar on the right side was a trifle smaller. The other parts of the face were of a peculiar red color. The lips were compressed, and the corners showed that they had also been burned. The dead man's beard showed a two days' growth and his moustache was short. It had the appearance of laying been trimmed to conceal the moustache was short. It had the appearance of having been trimmed to conceal the fact that it had been singed. A reporter lifted up the head and examined the back of the head and neck. The head had been shaven. The scalp was white and normal. Back of the neck, at the base of the brain, blood had settled in considerable quantity, and traces of the peculiar reliness of the face seemed to extend down the spinal column. seemed to extend down the spinal column. The body of Smiler was laid to rest in Woodlawn cemetery this morning.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 9.—Dr. C. M. Daniels, who was one of the witnesses in the Sing Sing electrocution, was interviewed this morning. Dr. Daniels said that he was in honor bound not to say anything concerning what happened in the death-chamber, but there were some things he could conscientiously to the said: "In the first place all the newspaper stories about the awful roasting the men got are very much exaggerated. In fact, they are untrue. There was no roasting, no burning, no horrible smell and no smoke. It was, in act, just the smoothest and quickest deat imaginable. No jarring or struggling, no twitching, or anything of the kind. The men simply sat down and the current was turned on and they were dead. Let me illustrate just how quickly these men ided. I wanted to see to convince me absolutely that death was instantaneous, though really my own mind did not requires such proof one man received the current while he was talking. I wanted to see where he would stop, whether wanted to see where he would stop, whether in the middle of a syllable, of a word or a sentence, whether he would stop instantly or speak after the current reached him.

SHOCKED WHILE TALKING. One man-he would not tell who-received the shock while he was talking. I was bending over and looking him in the face. He started a word. It began with the letter "s." He had just articulated the letter when the button was pressed. Nothing but the sound of the letter passed his lips. It died away suddenly and without any manifestation. The lips made no movement. There was not the slightest change of the facial expression. It was as if all the faculties were paralyzed into death in an instant."

"And therefore without pain?" "Absolutely, I am as certain of that as of anything in the world." Continuing, the Doctor said: that "such statements as were published about roasting were absurd. No sound, not the slightest, escaped any of the men when the button was pushed or afterward. men when the button was pushed or afterward. One of the men died with a smile on his face. It remained unchanged and he was smiling in death when I left Sing Sing prison. There was no perceptible odor in the room." "Was there any relaxation of the muscles of the chest as in Kemmier's case." "None at all. In one casel there was a movement so faint as to be hardly perceptible, but that was probably caused by a slight variation in the current. In no other case was there even the tremor of a muscle."

"Was there any expulsion of air from between the lips, as in Kemmier's case."

"None whatever. I was close to each man, and had there been any such demonstration I should have known of it. No, there was absoshould have known of it. No, there was absolutely nothing. Death was certain on the first contact and absolutely painless. The electrocutions were successful in almost every particular."

Why were two contacts necessary?"

WHY TWO CONTACTS WERE NECESSARY. "Metely precautionary. The men were dead, but in experimental stages it is always good to be certain." Dr. Daniels was shown the United Press dispatch from New York the United Fress dispatch from New York this morning stating that Smiler's body presents a terrible appearance, and that the leg is burned—and the face scarred. Dr. Daniels said that in this case water from the sponge trickled over the skin, carrying the current to beyond where the electrodes were applied, and that this was the cause of such appearances. Concluding Dr. Daniels said that the execution by electricity, as exemplified on Tuesday, was in the neatest manner possible. It robbed the neatest manner possible. It robbed death of its agony and of all external fearful-ness, although no manner of death can do away with the inherent fear of death which away with the inherent lear of death which most men have.

"I don't like that part of the law which provides for secrecy, and I believe it will be eventually repealed." Dr. Daniels brought home with him part of the kidney. liver and blood of the men, which he will analyze, and carry out some experiments which may substantiate conclusions reached in the Kemmler case. in the Kemmler case.

WHAT ANOTHER WITNESS SAYS. Dr. A. P. Southwick, another of the witnesses, was also interviewed. He corroborated Dr. Daniels' statements in every particuface being burned in several places were downright lies. There were some blisters by the heating of the salt water in the sponges, but before this water became hot the man but before this water became hot the man was dead. Dr. Southwick said Slocum and Wood were praying when they ded. The others said nothing. Slocum was saving "Lord have mercy on my soul" when he received the shock. He had just said the word "my" and started to say "soul." The siblant sound of the "s" was made, but the word soul was never uttered. That was a satisfying test that death was instantaneous. No one could ask for better evidence. Dr. Southwick said some changes might be made that would better the method of execution, but none that could bring quicker or more painless death. His idea is to let the man have his head free, let him be a man while living and be able to look

THE ITATA SEIZED AGAIN.

Her Captain Was Planning to Pay the $500 and Escape.

San Diego, Cal., July 9 .- The penalty of $500, which the Treasury Department has demanded of the steamer Itata for leaving port without clearance papers, has not been paid without clearance papers, has not been paid yet, but will probably be paid soon. Marshal Gard reseized the Itata yesterday and placed an officer in charge. This act was necessary in connection with the libel proceedings commenced by the United States District Attorney. It is now understood here that attorneys had advised Captains Mauzen and Tailed to see the move yet the torneys had advised Captains Mauzen and Tejeda to pay the money at once, get the vessel released from custody of the custom officers, and before Marshal Gard could reseize the Itata to get out of San Diego harbor as quick as steam would carry her. Upon receiving this advice it is reported that Mauzen returned from Los Angeles and telegraphed to Tejeda, who returned at noon yesterday. Meantime Mauzen and the other officers of the Itata had returned to the vessel. None of the crew had been allowed ashore. At 10:30 in the morn-turned to the vessel. None of the crew had been allowed ashore. At 10:30 in the morning, however, Marshal Gard and a deputy stepped aboard the itata and seized the vessel for violation of the neutrality laws and carrying off United States officers.

Mauzen is said to have been crestfallen upon the appearance of the marshal and awaited Tejeda, who hastened to the ship immediately upon the arrival of the train and heid a consultation with Mauzen. No further steps were taken in regard to leaving harbor. Had the Itata got away before reseizure much delay would probably have resulted before the Charleston could get unday way to chase her again, and by that time the Itata possibly could have escaped.

District Attorney Cole has filed a libel against the Itata before Judge Ross of the United States Court in Los Angeles, who ordered a momition and warrant of arrest issued/returnable Monday next. The libel is for violation of the neutrality law in fitting out the lates as were vessel at San Clement.

NO LOVE FOR THE NEW PARTY. The Farmers of New York and New England Do Not Take to It.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., July 9.—An extended canvass by the New England Homestead shows that the new People's party is not indorsed by the farmers of New England and New York. The men interviewed were all prominent farmers. While some favor more in-dependent political action than heretofore, nearly all oppose the idea of a special farmers' party. One or two go so far as to say that this party, if very conservative and the right this party if very conservative and the right platform is put forward will draw ten per cent, of the farmers votes in their sections, Maine and New York States, but the majority place this number far lower, from one to two per cent, being the average. The sub-Treasury bill and the loaning of new issues of paper by the Government on land values are looked upon as wild schemes and the free coinage of silver has a small following.

The opinion in general shows the strength of the position long held by the Grange and carried out by the Farmers' League, that the farmers' movement in this section of the Third Party Lenders Refuse to Affiliate With the Democrats.

Sr. Louis, Mo., July 9 .- A dispatch from Topeka, Kan., says: About fifteen prominent People's party leaders in session here, after discussing the proposition made by the Democratic State Central Committee recently to fuse with them in the local county elections in Kansas this year and to unite on an electoral ticket in opposition to the Republicass next year, declined to fuse, and a statement declaring against such action was ordered published in the Alliance Advocate, the offi-

He gave no reason for such action on the part of the Russians dissatisfied with this country, and by his silence has left a wide field of conjecture. (By Cable to The Times.) LONDON, July 9 .- After breakfast at Buckingham palace this morning, the Emperor, accompanied by a few members of his personal suite, and some of the gentlemen of his English guard of honor, mounted horses and proceeded to Hyde Park, where the imperial visitor and his companions enjoyed the pleasure of a mile and a half canter along historic "Rotten Row." The pedestrian path and its numerous benches furnished path and its numerous benches furnished standing and sitting room for a large number of persons who had received an inkling of the proposed imperial ride. The Kasser rode a spirited animal, the management of which afforded him an opportunity of exhibiting his superb horsemanship.

Compliments were heard on all sides as the Emperor with graceful force steadily held the restive horse, just a neck ahead of the foremost animal of his suite, and at the same time acknowledged with courteous inclination of the onlookers. The ride was evidently keenly

A special reception was accorded a number of the officers of the German reserve army who are now in London and who appeared in the full-dress uniforms of their military rank. To each of the officers the Kaiser spoke a word of friendly greeting. The German warriors were followed by a deputation from the Anti-Siavery Society, the chairman of which read an address to Chairman William, in which the monarch was urged to use his powerful influence in bringing about the suppression of an infamous traffic in human flesh and blood. In the response to the address the Kaiser evinced a thorough knowledge of the matter. He referred in energetic terms to the inhumanity of the African dealers in slaves and the sufferings of their unhappy victims. The Emperor, however, declared that he doubted the correctness of Livingston and the statement that for every slave who A special reception was accorded a number and the statement that for every slave

THE KAINER DEEPLY IMPRESSED.

In receiving the anti-slave delegation the Kniser said he had been deeply impressed by the accounts which Major Wissman had given him of the desolation caused by the slave-traders. He had been informed that villages which two years before had been prosperous and years before had been prosperous and densely populated were found utterly devestated and without a man left alive after the slave hunters had passed that way. He was glad that the united fleets of England and Germany had already checked the export of slaves, but he feared that in the interior the slave trade would not be suppressed without further severe struggles with
